FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BLUEPRINCE FORUM NOW AVAILABLE ONLINE

ASHEVILLE, NC – June 5, 2005 - BUILDERadius, Inc. announces the release of BluePrince Forums, an online message board designed to bring the BluePrince community together to share experiences and ideas.

BluePrince Forums will improve communication among BluePrince users. Members can share their best practices, discuss new features, and get tips from other members to help them take full advantage of the BluePrince Software. In addition to sections specific to BluePrince Version 1 and BluePrince Version 2 clients, we have also included a section for discussing the BuildingDepartment.com website. In the Off-Topic forum, members are free to discuss matters that are not specifically related to BluePrince or BuildingDepartment.com.

The popular vBulletin system powers BluePrince Forums and members will recognize many features common among other message boards. Through the User Control Panel, members can set up a Buddy List that will allow them to see who else is online. The Private Messaging feature allows members to communicate directly with each other without posting in a public forum. Subscribing to an individual thread or forum will add its link to your User Control Panel, making it easier to access your favorite subjects or threads later.

For more information and to register, visit www.BluePrinceSoftware.com/forums or send an email to John Patterson at ForumSupport@BluePrinceSoftware.com.
